WHERE VOLUNTEER FIREMEN WILL CELEBRATE WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow after noon there will be a Joycus gathering of veterans at the Volunteer Firemen's hall, 271 Canyon road, for the purpose of celebrating the double event of Washington's birthday and the first anniversary of the occupancy of the present elegant quarters of the association.

Nearly 100 members and their families are expected to be present and today the good housewives are actively engaged in preparing toothsome dainties for the impromptu lunch which will be served in the clubroom upstairs, and which will be not the least of the features. Promptly at two o'clock the program will commence, It will consist of speeches, graphophone selections and vocal and plano solos, after which the picnic will be served under the direction of R. J. Knight the house steward. The general program is in the hands of President George M. Ottinger and Secretary R. H. Hardy and associates. It is not anticipated that the happy gathering will break up until late in the evening after a second concert which mayor of the city, signed an ordinance for the organization of a fire brigade and from that date until October, 1883 Salt Lake City depended upon the patriotism of her citizens who volunteered for fire protection and fire service. Three dozen leather buckets were purchased, and twenty-one fire ladders constructed, and bucket companies formed in each ecclesiastical ward.

Since the institution of a paid department the members of the old pioneer organization have associated and kept up the traditions of the past. One year ago tomorrow they moved from their lumber quarters on East South Temple street into their present commodious home which had been erected through the efforts of George M. Ottinger, that old "silver gray" in the service, and his associates. Here are stored on the lower floor the old fire engine, buckets and other paraphernalia that has seen service in the old days. Upstairs there is a commodous hall wherein entertainments are held from time to time and the men gather at their leisure and read or talk over old times when they would have to answer the fire bell and rush shouting and panting for one or two miles hauling the cumbersome fire apparatus by means of long ropes.

prison. While it includes the present administration building, the structure is practically entirely new. The basement story includes a cold storage room 11x17 feet, also two large cellars. On the main floor is a 15x18 ft. entrance hall, containing a large mantel and an elaborate staircase and large tower window; a guard's dining room, 15x18 ft., containing a large mantel with china closet, also an officers' kitchen, pastry and butler's pantry; also the usual other

The second story includes the warden's dining room, 13x26 ft., a sitting room, 15x18 ft., butler's panfry, china closet, fine mantels and an office room for meetings of the State board of corrections. Then the sitting room, parfor and other apartments in the present building will be connected. Two stone porches will be erected over the approaches to the building, the heating will all be by hot water, and the lighting by electricity. There will be a warehouse 25x60 ft., one story high, built on the present two-story underground cellar house, and other minor changes are to be made about the exterior of the prison. The cost of the improvement will not be over $6,000, as the labor is being done by convicts, and Warden Dow and his men will be comfortably and conveniently housed. L. D. Martin, one of the guards, and one of the warden's most reliable men, is the architect.

Private Leonard Ran Away Three Months Before Time Expired.

Private J. R. Leonard of L company Eighteenth infantry, who deserted from Fort Douglas last December, has been apprehended in southern Nevada and will be brought to this post to answer o a courtmartial. Leonard joined the army three years ago and served with signal bravery in the Philippine campaign. He was regarded as one of the best and most reliable men in the company and when he deserted, just three months before he was to be honorably discharged from the service, the officers hemselves to believe it.

One of his comrades in explaining the conduct of his friend says the latter suffered terribly from "Dhobic itch," until it succeeded in driving him alnost mad, and he thinks that Leonard was hardly responsible for what he did.
